

A MANAGER'S SECRET SUPERPOWER

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION SKILLS FOR MANAGERS & SUPERVISORS

7 CPD UNITS

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Communication is vital to management. Whether working for a manufacturer, restaurant, service firm, hospital, or software developer, somewhere between 70-90% of a manager's time is spent communicating. Organizational decisions are highly dependent on the quality and quantity of information being exchanged. Poor or incomplete information can negatively impact a manager's ability to successfully make decisions.

This training course helps managerial employees and supervisors better understand the importance of communication skills in management and improve their own communication skills. The session assists participants in developing the confidence and competence they need to communicate with ease, influence others to achieve desired results, and have a lasting impact on the people around them.

TARGET GROUP

The perfect audience for this seminar would be managers, organizational/team leaders, supervisors, rising managers & supervisors, executives, and anyone else in charge of managing others.
